

Young People's Anti-Bullying Event

The Anti-Bullying Alliance (ABA) are launching Anti-Bullying Week with a Showcase event at Central Hall Westminster on Monday 21 November 2005.

Similar to the I Power I anti-bullying conferences (produced by www.actionwork.com and www.bully.org) for young people this event will highlight the work that children and young people are involved in across the country to tackle bullying in their schools and other organisations. There will be displays, workshops and drama and music presentations led by children and young people.

Esther Rantzen, ABA's president, will introduce the day. Al Aynsley-Green will be launching his first publication as Children's Commissioner. ITV's Alastair Stewart will chair a Question Time session. The Schools Minister, Jacqui Smith will also be there.

For more information please contact Sonji Nurse, ABA's new Administrator at snurse@ncb.org.uk
